Learning Moment: Isla Espiritu Santos, Mexico

Sea lions, while cute, like to bite.
This one nipped me twice on the forearm...

Rays can fly. Who knew? Not me.
No one is sure why they do, but watching them is exhilarating.

April 2010

Learning Moment: Alum Rock Park, San Jose, CA

May 2010

Learning Moment: Taos Pueblo, New Mexico

Surprising combinations – like a Native American chant honoring fallen warriors on Memorial day – bring new appreciation to familiar rituals.

June 2010

Learning Moment: Alum Rock Park, San Jose, CA

Patience is rewarded.

For years, I've been trying to get a good shot of a woodpecker.

Rattlesnakes don't always rattle.
I missed stepping on this one by one foot.

September 2010

Learning Moment: San Francisco, California
 Watching this baker at the Boudin factory reminded me that any work can produce a 'work of art'.

Learning Moment: Golden Gate Bridge, San Francisco

Ready, fire, aim - quantity often produces quality.
 Rapidly snapping while driving, I captured this image.

December 2010

Learning Moment: Monterey, California

If you want to touch the sky, you've got to learn how to kneel.
Bono is right; to get this shot, I had to get on my knees.

Learning Moment: Alviso, California

In a year without distant adventures, I found an exotic world five minutes from our office. Alviso is home to a ghost town, salt flats, historic sites, a bird sanctuary, and one-dollar tacos.

*"Then the lure of adventure began to grip us.
Why not start at once?
We'd never be any younger, any of us..."*

The Cruise of the Snark*
